The Purity of Wheat Varieties (Results of Tests, 1941-1947)

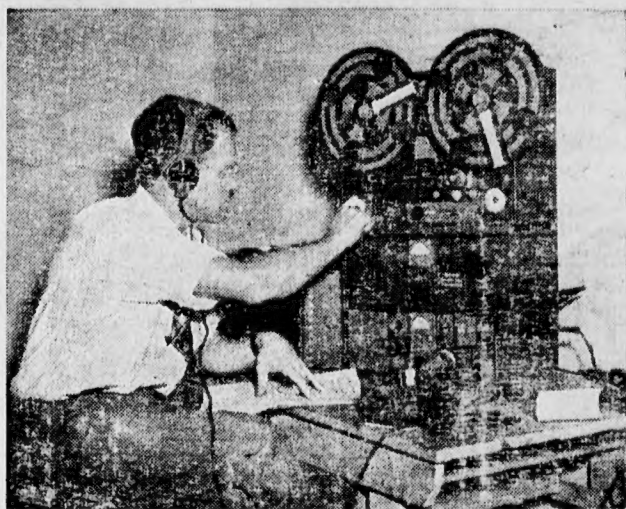

One of the definite characteristics of good seed is that it must be "pure" as to variety. In other words, it should be as free as possible from admixtures of inferior types. Annually, since 1941, Line Elevators Farm Service has tested hundreds of farmers' seed samples of wheat for varietal purity.

Method. The test for purity of variety is strictly a growing test. The seed sample is planted in rows at the University of Manitoba. As the resulting plants approach maturity they are analysed by agronomists of the Plant Science Department. The sample is then classified according to the number of foreign, inferior and off-type plants appearing under field conditions.

Results. The results of varietal purity tests made on farmers' samples of wheat seed during the seven years, 1941 to 1947, are as follows:—

Year	No. of Samples Tested	Percentage Satisfactorily Pure
1941	1834	64.9
1942	1707	72.1
1943	520	80.0
1944	392	71.9
1945	403	72.9
1946	1284	90.8
1947	1849	90.7

Conclusions. Less than 75% of the farm samples of wheat seed tested in 1941, 1942, 1944 and 1945 was "satisfactorily pure" as to variety. In other words, over 25% of the samples tested in these years produced, when grown under field conditions, more than one percent of inferior (foreign, off-type, etc.) plants. In 1946 and 1947, however, the situation improved considerably. Of the farm seed stocks tested for varietal purity in these years more than 90% was classified as "satisfactorily pure". The best advice we can give to farmers with respect to the purity of their wheat and other seed stocks is this. When in doubt, change your seed.

Comparisons show that Canadians consumed more milk and milk products during the past year than Australians, more poultry, game and fish, eggs and egg products, oils and fats, potatoes, pulse and nuts, tomatoes and citrus fruits. On the other hand Australians consumed more meat, sugar and syrups, fruit and fruit products, other than tomatoes and citrus fruits, and more cereals, other than those classed as leafy, green and yellow. Another interesting comparison is the supply of potatoes entering civilian consumption. The Australian supply per head was about 133 pounds and Canadian 217 pounds.

We hear a great deal of the expression "shortage of dollars"; that Europe is short of American and Canadian dollars, and that Canada is short of American dollars. This term "shortage of dollars" is a misnomer. It does not express really what is wrong for the truth is that Britain and European countries are short of goods to ship to Canada, and the United States, with which we earn our dollars, and Canadian products and commodities they desire. Likewise Canada is shipping insufficient goods and products to the United States to earn sufficient American dollars with which to pay for all the American things our Canadian people would like to buy. The Marshall Aid Plan is intended to help rebuild British and European industries so that they can produce more goods to earn more dollars.

Members are always interested in estimates of the department of Justice. This year it was explained that greatly increased educational facilities have been introduced in all penitentiaries of Canada. The number of full time teachers has been doubled. Correspondence courses are available and have been used on a much larger scale than ever before.

Vocational training is now in existence in nearly all penitentiaries. The young convicts are taught construction carpentry, cabinet making, brick masonry, plumbing, steam fitting, tin-smithing and drafting. The libraries have been greatly increased. The classification of prisoners has been completed, and if any are suspected of having tuberculosis or other illness, they are treated, and isolated when necessary. The complete segregation of different ages and classes of prisoners has not been fully carried out on account of lack of space and facilities.

When a prisoner is released, he has about $18 at least, and the John Howard, or other Prison Aid Society, is notified. These societies receive government grants, and are doing a real service. They contact the prisoner, provide what is needed, and take all the possible measures to find him employment, give him hope and courage, and have him re-established as a useful member of society.

CANADA'S STRENGTH

Any day we can pick up a newspaper or magazine and read something about national unity. Especially when elections are in the air or when anything arises which urges the attention of the whole country. What we need is to bring in down to earth. We realize that if political parties admitted they had been at fault, there would be less mud slinging and more of the patriotism that builds a nation. There would be more of a common loyalty to Canada—above party, race, point of view or personal advantage. But it is imperative that we also realize that it isn't just the job of the politicians. It is ours.

It is the privilege of every Canadian to put into his politics a spirit free from prejudice and thought of personal gain. To accomplish this we should use every opportunity to create the right spirit in national life without destructive and irresponsible criticism; help our representatives to put national interest ahead of political expediency and personal advantage, with out resort to patronage or other abuses; practise ourselves, in our homes and at our work, a leadership of men who base their public policies and personal lives on honesty and faith in God.

There are thousands ready to support the men who put into action those moral and spiritual convictions which are essential for Canada's strength. By our own constant adherence to such, we can be a rallying point for all citizens who want to do their bit. Our homes will become an answering force for the community. We, our families and our friends, can supply the teamwork that can pull the nation together, not only at election time but the year round.—Pull Together Canada Press Service.

An English Journey

By Walter Legge representing the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

Everybody in Canada is greatly interested in the food situation in England and many conflicting stories have been told. Here is what I found.

One of the most remarkable changes since I was here in 1942 is found in the shops. Where windows were absolutely bare in 1942, they are filled with merchandise of all kinds today. Stores which in 1942 were almost empty with large sections roped off, are groaning under the load of goods.

But here is the rub, these goods are most difficult to buy due to the mass of red tape and restrictions, for rationing in England is a fearful thing to experience. English people are tied down by restrictions and bureaucratic rules and regulations to an unbelievable extent.

I confess that I cannot understand much of it, but I find that many people who have been here ever since before the war are just as puzzled as I am.

First thing on arrival at Blackpool we had to go to the central food control office to get our ration books, for one cannot get along without them.

It took us a whole morning to stand in line, get national registration cards, sign numbers of forms, most of which we knew nothing about, and finally receive books and coupons for meat, preserves, sugar, cheese, butter and fats, bacon, eggs, milk, clothing, bread, tea, soap, points for cereals, canned goods, sweets, and several other things.

The clerical work in filling our forms, cutting off expired portions, etc., is tremendous. There must be an enormous waste of manpower over this rationing for there are offices with large staffs in all except the smallest places.

In addition there is fuel, control, gasoline control, building control, rent control, etc.

Once the ration books are received the newcomer may think he can start out to buy things. What a hope! You can only buy meat, milk, butter, eggs, bacon, sugar, jam, cheese, etc., at a store where you have registered, and it is difficult to change registration from one store to another.

Thus you have to take whatever your merchant cares to give you, or what he has on hand, and you cannot go to another store without a good reason and going through much red tape. Therefore if you think your butcher is not giving you fair treatment, about the only way you can improve matters is by trying to carry favor with him.

There are some few things that are neither rationed nor sold on points, such as fish, fresh vegetables and a few tinned articles such as fish and meat pastes, soups, etc., but in many cases the store has a sign over them reading "Reserved for our regular customers."

Although there is plenty of tinned foods in the stores, no one can buy much of it for each person only receives 28 points a month and 28 points will only buy very little. Here is what is needed in points on some common items, salmon 32 points a tin; sardines 2 pts. a tin; fruit cocktail 20 points; a tin; peas 5 pts. a can; beans 12 pts. a can; soda biscuits (or cream crackers as they are called) 4 pts. a lb.; chocolate biscuits 4 pts. a lb.; jelly powder 4 pts. a package and other things in proportion, so that the purchaser seriously studies just how much he will use the slim allotment of points that he is given.

Bread and cake are sold on a "bread unit" point, and 33 a month is allowed each person. A loaf of bread requires 4 "BU's" and the loaves look pretty small to a Canadian.

Where chickens are kept, the egg-rations for every member of the family must be surrendered and 2 lbs. of chicken meal is allowed for each person's egg-rations, so even the chickens have to go short.

On sweets, the ratio is 12 oz. a month with an occasional increase to 16 oz. One lady told me that she had saved up her sweets coupons in order to buy a couple of pounds of candies for her daughter who was returning to boarding school, only to find that the coupons had expired the previous Saturday. She told me she was ready to sit down and cry.

It is with fuel that the people (Continued on last page)

For those who prefer a repellent spray, with a quick knock-down kill of all flies it hits, your Imperial Oil Agent offers the tried-and-proved Stanco Livestock Spray. No spray repels flies more effectively, or knocks them down faster.

THIS YEAR, you can rid your livestock and your stables, hog pens and poultry houses of flies, more completely than ever before. Imperial D D T Concentrate is the answer to your prayer, as far as flies are concerned.

It's economical to use, too. For power spraying or dipping, you mix only 1 part concentrate to 125 parts water (which is equal to about 2½ tablespoons in a gallon). For hand spraying, you double the strength. For walls and ceilings, a gallon of concentrate makes 5 gallons of spray.

As it dries, it leaves a residue of D D T on the animals' hair, or on walls and ceilings, which is sure death to every fly that lights on it. They pick it up on their feet and it kills by paralysis.

Imperial D D T Concentrate is the most up-to-the-minute fly killer on the market. You can depend on it. See your Imperial Oil Agent.

A Geographical Congress

GEOGRAPHY HAS BECOME an increasingly interesting and important subject, as rapidly changing world conditions have brought about many alterations in our maps and made hitherto unknown places important. In view of this there will be widespread interest in the forthcoming Congress of the International Geographical Union, which is being held in Lisbon, Portugal, in September of this year. It is expected that leading geographers from all parts of the world will be there, and Canada will be represented by three official delegates and several observers. No gathering of the Union has been held since 1938, when there was one in Amsterdam, and there will be more than usual interest in this first meeting to be called since the war.

Of Interest To Canada

The agenda for the meeting includes many subjects which will be of interest to Canada at this time. Among these will be studies of rural dwellings, changes in land due to irrigation and subdivision, and the weakening of soils due to continuous cropping, all of which are related to problems with which the people of this country are familiar. The physical geography section will discuss the subject of arid and semi-arid lands, while those interested in biogeography will consider such matters as the effect of biological pests on vegetation and methods of cultivation, the propagation of plant species, and the inheritance from the past in present-day vegetation.

To Discuss Map Making

Recent air surveys of the Canadian North, during which many new features of the land there were discovered, will give the Canadian delegates an added interest in discussions which will be held concerning plans for standardizing conventional symbols for topographical maps. Discussions relating to movements of populations, the utilization of arid lands, reforestation and moisture conservation, methods of teaching geography in schools, and the international exchange of information by students of the subject, all likewise touch on matters which concern this country. The proceedings of the forthcoming meetings at Lisbon will be of interest to all who recognize the significance of the problems to be discussed and are aware of the importance of the study of geography in these times.

Fast Decision Seen If War Hits Arctic

TORONTO. — Outcome of a war fought in the Arctic would be "forced quickly" Lt.-Col. J. N. Crawford of Ottawa said.

He discussed medical aspects of warfare in the far north for the armed services' section of the Canadian Medical Association.

Col. Crawford said small detachments of troops would fight on a small front. Troops would travel overland by snow vehicles or be airborne as parachutists or glider men. Supplies would be flown to them or brought by tractor train. An advance base would be close to the front and a main one, "in the temperate zone".

Dr. O. M. Solandt of Ottawa, chairman of the defence research board, urged doctors to help form an international agency to abolish war. He said his board was studying defence methods in case of atomic or bacteriological war.

YAWN SHOWS OXYGEN SUPPLY IS DEPLETED

Farm Lightning Protection

Lightning rods, to do their work successfully, should be installed correctly. These diagrams show the method of installation on various shapes of buildings.

WHILE lightning is not responsible for most farm fires, it usually causes more serious fires and greater destruction in rural areas than any other cause of farm fires. Fires from other causes can often be checked at the start, but the lightning fire usually results in a complete loss.

Both copper and iron are suitable for lightning conductors, but since the resistance of iron to the flow of electric current is about ten times that of copper it is plain that to be effective, iron rods would have to be so heavy that they are out of the question. Copper is resistant to exposure to the weather and also to a great extent to corrosion in the soil so long as it is free from ammonia. Due to the presence of ammonia, manure should never be allowed to pile up around a copper lightning rod.

All connections or joints in cables must be carefully made and there should be as few as possible. A copper clamp is dependable when properly hammered down so as to make a joint which meets the regulations of the Lightning Rod Act.

The purpose of lightning rods is to conduct electric charges from lightning to the ground, therefore the ground connections are the most important part of a lightning rod system.

Conductors should be brought down in as short a line as is convenient, taking care to avoid any sharp bends in the rod as this is not considered good practice.

The important thing about grounding the rods is to make sure that every ground rod is always in contact with permanently moist earth. Various means are used for making the hole into which the ground rod is pushed, but, however it is done, the rod should be pushed into the ground.

Fruit, Vegetable Ban To Be Lifted End Of Year

OTTAWA.—Canada's reserves of gold and United States dollars totaled $742,000,000 at June 23, compared with a low of $461,000,000 last December 17, Finance Minister Abbott reported to the Commons.

At the same time, he disclosed that import restrictions on fresh fruit and vegetables from the United States will be relaxed by the end of this year.

Steps also will be taken this Fall to allow the import of British West Indian tomatoes so Canadians will have a reasonable supply of lettuce, tomatoes and citrus fruits next winter when Canadian production is low.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

TALK IS NOT CHEAP

By ROBERT OBERFIRST

UNCLE ABEL, who was really my great-uncle on my father's side, might have been seventy-five years old, maybe ninety — no one really knew; but everyone knew he was the talkiest man that ever breathed. My mother said he had lived his life in a mill town somewhere in northern Pennsylvania as a patternmaker in a foundry. But the things he'd tell: like the time his ship was wrecked off the coast of South Africa and he swam high upon twenty miles to reach dry land.

We were not a large family: my father, my brother, sister Julie, kid brother Jess and myself, on a fifteen-acre truck farm in the pine woods of southern Jersey. Last January, to my mother's regret, Uncle Abel had come to live with us. He was a skinny man; must've been tall in his young days, but now he was quite curled over. But there was nothing the matter with his voice. He did no work to speak of; said it interfered with what he had to do, which was sitting on the doorstep and whittling on a stick with his ancient jackknife, talking, talking...

"Looka here, Annie," he'd say to my mother, "you ain't hangin' them clothes up right nohow. In the first place you hang them edgewise to the sun and that ain't common sense 'cause that way the sun don't hardly shine on them at all. Now, the way I'd hang wash on a line—"

My mother would glare at him, clothes pins in her mouth, her eyes blazing with eloquence stronger even than Uncle Abel's spoken words. But Uncle Abel would whittle on and say: "The way you go about things in this house... now, what I'd do..."

But my father tolerated Uncle Abel. As, for instance, at the end of a day's plowing my father would come into the kitchen, hot and sweating, his face lined with dust of the fields. He'd be hungry too, and there we'd wait at the supper table—kid brother Jess, sister Julie and I, listening to Uncle Abel. I knew my mother couldn't stand him and his yarns, but we kids always listened.

Sometimes he'd tell us real exciting stories about how he had fought Indians; or how he had swum up a jungle river with fifty huge crocodiles in hot pursuit. My father would sit down at the table and off went Uncle Abel: "Tell you what, Joshua" that was my father's name — "you ought to wash outside at the yard pump instead of comin' into the kitchen and washin' at the sink. Messes things up for Annie. Many's the time I'd wash my face with snow up near the North Pole while I was lookin' for gold in Alaska—"

"Please, Uncle Abel—" pleaded my mother. Uncle Abel continued as if my mother had not spoken.

"We will now say grace," said my father calmly.

I wondered why mother couldn't be as patient as father, instead of raging inside her at Uncle Abel, the way she did. We said grace, and my father said "Amen" and we all started to eat the roast beef and mashed potatoes. Uncle Abel didn't stop talking, even though his mouth was chock full...

Sunday afternoon my mother, more resentful than ever at Uncle Abel's chattering, announced to Jess, Julie and me that we were going to visit the Thompsons, on a farm a half mile south of ours. Uncle Abel invited himself at once. Mother, furious, could not openly tell him to stay home and keep my father company, for father didn't like to visit on Sunday afternoon. It was his time of rest.

Uncle Abel regaled us with yarns as we walked along the country road. My mother suggested we take the short-cut, the path through the woods. The path led us to a log bridge over Bramble's Creek, a green swirling current, not very wide between banks. It was cool here, with pines, and spruce crowding each other.

My kid brother Jess, always adventurous, left the party and remained on the bridge. He let himself over the edge of the logs and dangled down. Uncle Abel, meanwhile, was at his best: "This spot reminds me of the time I was lost in the jungles of the Amazon. Couldn't find my way out nohow, with night comin' on fast and the jungle chock full with wild beasts and snakes. Abel did was jest close my eyes and walk. Would you believe it? I came out on a farm, hungry as all-get-out but otherwise jest as spick and span as you now behold me..." There was a scream. Jess had fallen into the green depths of the creek and now he yelled for help as his slight form went under. My mother's eyes opened in terror and I remembered that Jess and I had not yet learned to swim.

Uncle Abel was saying: "Now that calls to mind once when I was in India, along the Ganges River..."

"For heaven's sake, do something!" said my mother.

Uncle Abel said: "Once, when our steamer struck an iceberg in the North Atlantic I rescued the Captain—" Uncle Abel jumped into the water feet first. His white head ducked under and remained under for a spell. Finally it appeared above the surface and Uncle Abel began moving shoreward, dragging Jess after him. Then Uncle Abel climbed out of the water, pulling Jess along. Jess coughed the water out of his windpipe. Jess said: "Mother, mother, Uncle Abel is drowning!" Uncle Abel choked and spluttered. He had swallowed too much water and now he just keeled over and lay still upon the bank.

"Hurry, run and fetch father," said my mother.

It was quite dark when Uncle Abel opened his eyes in our house with Dr. Haley from Crestville bending over him. Uncle Abel's mouth moved, but the best he could manage was a whisper: "Reminds me of the hurricane off the Florida Keys..."

"Don't try to talk," said Dr. Haley kindly. "I'm afraid you've lost your voice, for how long, I can't say. But you'll be able to whisper and you're lucky at that."

I could see my mother's lips tremble and she looked sorry. I heard my father call her aside and say: "You'll be gentle with him, Annie, when he brags about what a swimmer he is. Jess would have drowned easy, even though the water's only four feet deep at the bridge."

HOMING INSTINCT

HORSE RETURNS HOME AFTER BEING SHIPPED 900 MILES AWAY

FT. ST. JOHN—Home on the range looked better for a bay horse five-year-old, the further he got away from the home corral. The bay was one of eight head of horses hauled 900 miles north of here on the Alcan to Johnsons Crossing, Y.T.

Upon arrival at Johnsons Crossing, the geesees were unloaded from the truck and permitted freedom to browse around. Seized with a longing for home, the bay gelding started south. Exactly 17 days after he was missed from the string at Johnsons Crossing, the bay was whinnying at the home gate, 900 miles distant. He had hoofed it all the way. Official time, 2,2005 m.p.h.

The Canadian government which bought the animal for work as a pack horse on some survey jobs on the Yukon-Alaska boundary will now make up its mind as to whether or not the bay will be lassoed and transported once again to the Yukon.

Farm Population
Drops In The U.S.

WASHINGTON.—Nearly 1,000,000 persons left cities, towns and villages in the United States last year to settle on farms, but more than 1,500,000 moved away from farms into cities, towns and villages.

The January 1 farm population was estimated by the Department of Agriculture at 27,440,000. That was 110,000 fewer than the estimate for January 1, 1947, when a peak of 27,550,000 was recorded after a two-year rise from 25,190,000 at the outset of 1945.

The 1947 decline in farm population was modified by the fact that births exceeded deaths in that group by nearly 500,000, the largest annual increase from that cause since 1925.

Closed Season On Ducks Urged

OTTAWA.—Douglas Ross (PC—Toronto St. Paul's) urged in the Commons that Canada and the United States declare a two-year closed season on ducks.

He said that unless drastic action is taken there will be no ducks for hunters to shoot. It was no use for Canada alone to declare a closed season, because the ducks migrated to the United States and would be shot in open season there.

Resources Minister MacKinnon said that his department held a conference with provincial and U.S. wild life officials.

German Cutlery
Industry May
Move To Canada

OTTAWA.—The government is studying an application by the Nova Scotia government to move an entire cutlery industry from Germany to that province.

A hint of the negotiations was given in Halifax by Nova Scotia's Industry Minister Connolly. He said in a speech that the wholesale transfer is being considered and that officials of this department will go to Germany soon to bring technical advisers to the province.

A former naval base at Shelburne, N.S., is the proposed site. About 30 skilled Germans would get the plant started; some 200 Nova Scotians would be employed later.

The 30 technicians are displaced persons whose families would come to Canada under the plan. No machinery could be brought from Germany, so it would have to be provided from other sources.

The Nova Scotia government's application is being considered by trade department and immigration officials, it was learned. Rulings in similar cases have been to allow a small number of experts to settle first, to be followed by other workmen as the industry develops.

Newspaper Provides
Best Advertising Media

QUEBEC.—Newspaper advertising continues to provide the best media for moving goods off retailers' shelves in quantity, Edgar G. Burton, president of the Robert Simpson Co., Ltd., said in an address to the Newspaper Advertising Executives of America.

"Magazines, radio and even television, have their part to play, but for consistent results the newspaper ad 'delivers the goods'."

"A specific article is usually offered at a price and the reader is told where to get it. He is persuaded to come and buy it today, or at the latest tomorrow. Retailers generally find that kind of appeal more effective than the sort of advertising which suggests you might buy something, sometime, or someplace."

The development of his own company from a small store, Mr. Burton said, would not have been possible without the close co-operation of many Canadian newspapers.

"And here may I say most of the Canadian press maintains a standard of news and advertising presentation of which we are indeed proud."

The additional generator will close the gap between Kamloops district demand and the output of the local steam and hydro-electric plants until Whatehan electricity is available in 1951.

To Consider Removal
Of Refrigerator Ban

OTTAWA.—Finance Minister Douglas Abbott told the House that he would give early consideration to removal of the ban on the importation of kerosene refrigerators.

"PIONEER'S" ADDITIONAL PAYMENT ON OATS AND BARLEY

Some months ago we made an interim payment of 12 cents on oats and 10 cents on barley, and advised all customers that final payment would be made later.

Cheques are now in the hands of all agents for this final distribution. It will be appreciated if you will call and pick up your cheque.

This payment plus the initial interim payment makes a total of 13 1/4c per bushel on oats, and 16 1/4c per bushel on barley.

We are happy to announce that "Pioneer" customers are receiving more per bushel than the distribution made by any other Pool or Line elevator operators in Saskatchewan or Alberta.

IT PAYS TO PULL TO THE "PIONEER"

The Federal Government promised to make a payment to farmers on oats and barley, delivered at selling prices between August 1st and October 21st, 1947, after the Elevator Companies had made an adjustment. This has now been done and we therefore trust the Federal Government will implement its promise in the near future.

Town & District

It appears that everybody who can get away is heading for the big Calgary show this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Taylor and three children of Calgary, spent few days in town visiting the former's parents Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Taylor.

Dr. Wright wife and family of Stettin spent a day in town a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bates. Some twenty years ago Dr. Wright was a resident of Gleichen where he practiced dentistry. When he lived here he was one of the original star players of the Gleichen hockey club that made a name for itself all over the province—the Gunners.

.. Buchan who some years ago operated a hardware store in Cluny was in town one day last week looking up old friends. For some years past he has been living in Lethbridge.

Wilber Plante has bought George Hunter's barn and has been busy at late tearing it down and moving the lumber to his farm. This barn was built some 35 years ago and was a landmark in town.

Penguins' eggs considered a delicacy by some South Africans, said to be boiled for 20 minutes, masked, and flavored with pepper, salt and vinegar to be edible.

Only one Canadian woman of 48, 000 serving in World War II was killed as a result of enemy action. 71 died of illness or accident, 37 were wounded by bombing, 14 army nursing sisters were injured in Sicily, and two taken prisoner in Hong Kong.

Electricity and gas are also in very short supply.

Gasoline is supposed to be so severely rationed that only essential driving can be done. The gasoline rationing has been the most difficult to enforce and there is a remarkably large number of cars on the streets and roads which seem to prove that there is considerable disregard of the regulations.
